FRIDAY, AUG. 12, 1887.

The Halifax Chronicle has a unique argument in favor of its opinion that commercial union will keep Canada and the United States politically apart, and that denial of commercial union will promote annexation sentiments. It intimates that the old reciprocity treaty was terminated by the United States in the hope of securing the annexation of this country, and it quotes United States Consul Potter as follows:

"I believe I express the general feeling of those who are the most friendly to the United States in Canada when I say it is not the policy of our Government or our policy to continue this treaty, and I believe that in two years from the abrogation of the reciprocity treaty the people of Canada themselves will apply for admission to the United States. I repeat that I believe in two years they will ask for admission."

Now, says the Chronicle, if the people of the United States ended that treaty of reciprocity in the hope of forcing Canada into annexation, how can it be believed that they now propose the very opposite policy—unrestricted reciprocity—with the design of securing the same end.

To which it may be replied that, in the first place, the people of the United States have not offered us unrestricted reciprocity; now is there any good reason to believe that as a people they desire it? Congress has not adopted any resolution favoring it. Mr. Butterworth introduced his Bill at a time when he knew it could not be acted upon, because he knew that, if it were acted upon, it would be rejected. Neither political party has committed itself to the principle. No State Legislature has declared in favor of the principle; but, on the contrary, several have pronounced against it. The press of the United States has given the matter very little attention. No prominent man in the United States has treated the matter with other than contemptuous silence. It will be time to tell us what the people of the United States desire when in some formal and unmistakable manner they have through their representatives expressed their views on this subject.

In the second place, if the people of the United States abrogated the old reciprocity treaty with a view of forcing Canada into annexation, it is manifest they failed to secure the desired end. Well, we have never heard it urged that our neighbors are idiots. If on line of policy failed, it is not unreasonable to suppose that the contrary plan might succeed. The tempest failed to tear the coat from the traveller's back, but the warm rays of the sun succeeded. The Chronicle says the United States tried by hostility to drive Canada into annexation; it is possible that those who favor unrestricted reciprocity believe closer commercial relations will secure that which isolation and repulsion failed to secure. One thing is certain, and that is that every man, whether in Canada or in the United States, who desires annexation, is in favor of commercial union.

The Toronto World, referring to the gopher nuisance, says these pests have been known on the continent since the time of Columbus, or before, but it is only since civilized man came along and created material for them to plunder that they became troublesome. The treasurer of Montana Territory now pays ten cents for the scalp of every prairie dog brought to him and five cents for the tail of every gopher, the Canadian figure for the latter being three cents. On July 7 the territorial auditor and treasurer of Montana made their quarterly report to Gov. Leslie of Montana. The paragraph concerning bounties on wild animals since April 1 shows the sum of $22,000 having been paid for bears, wolves, coyotes, mountain lions, ground squirrels and the like; $20,000 of this sum has been for gophers alone. We should think that in the sparsely settled districts of the Northwest this kind of expenditure would be a heavy tax on the settlers, but it seems the thing must be done. After all, however, it may be doubted whether gophers and all the other pests known to the Northwest are such a drawback to the country as the plague of English rabbits has become in Australia, according to accounts from that far off land in the southern hemisphere.

It is said that an official statement, to be issued from Washington in a few days, will show that the decreased consumption of whiskey, along with the increased consumption of beer, which has been so noticeable during some years past, is still going on. The figures given are for the fiscal year ended June 30, and it is claimed they will give much encouragement to the advocates of prohibition. They show a falling off in the receipts from the tax on distilled spirits of nearly $5,000,000, and this result has been achieved principally in those States in which local option and kindred measures have been most successful. The inroads thus made upon the distilling and liquor interests have attracted the serious attention of those whose capital is embarked in the business, and recent publications in their trade organs indicate a purpose of raising large sums of money to inaugurate what, for want of a better name, may be called an anti-temperance crusade in some of the leading States in which the Prohibition movement has been making conspicuous advances. As a slight offset to the decreased consumption of whiskey there is shown in nearly all the States a marked increase in beer drinking. The tax on malt liquors is much lighter in proportion than that upon distilled spirits, but the revenues from this source during the past year were $500,000 more than for the fiscal year of 1886, and the receipts for that year were largely in excess of the year preceding. It is thus evident that beer drinking is increasing and whiskey drinking decreasing in the United States.

The proposal to relegate the power of Prohibition to the Provinces is a step in the right direction if it be meant at the same time to abandon the hopeless attempt to carry the Dominion as a whole. To be sure, the Legislature of a Province is quite as incompetent as the Parliament of the Dominion to reform men's habits by a Bill; and the attempt of a majority to force other men to submit to a degrading tutelage quite inconsistent with the development of the Christian life, would be as arbitrary in the Province as the Dominion. Yet this proposal is a step—though but a step—toward a true position on this question, which will be attained only when the present intermediate position of Prohibition by districts and towns has been overpassed, and Prohibition has been narrowed to the sphere of the family, every man being his own Prohibitionist only. This is the only kind of Prohibition an intelligent Christian can embrace, and it cannot be effected by Act of Parliament.

Mail service between the United States and the Australian colonies is at present a matter of considerable interest, especially as there is a movement under way to have the colonial mails delivered at San Diego, and from that point transmitted by the southern route to the east, so as to be in time for certain ocean steamships. By this route it is believed that mails can be landed in London thirty-one days from Sydney. The Canadian Pacific is also making a strong effort to get the transportation of the Australian mails.

TERRITORIAL NEWS

LETHBRIDGE.

From the News July 20.
About 250 tons of coal are being got out of the mines here now daily.

Several showers of rain have fallen in this vicinity during the past week, and the crops and grass, which badly needed them, are beginning to look up again.

Sergt. C. Ross, who is stationed at Fort de Orille Coules on detachment, met with a sad accident on Monday night last. He had been to town and was on his way back to his post. While camped at Fifteen Mile Lake for the night the horses stampeded and the Sergt. jumped on a horse to round them up. In turning short after some of the horses, his revolver, which he had stuck carelessly in the waistband of his trousers, caught on the horn of the saddle and exploded, the ball going through the fleshy part of his leg. He returned to town and is now at the barracks under Dr. McEwen's care.

Yet, Staff Sergt. Fraser had the misfortune to receive a kick on the head from a horse he was attending, which will lay him up for a couple of weeks.

Sergt. Desbarres, of "K" troop, arrived here from Banff last week. He has been on leave of absence for a month or so.

CALGARY.

From the Herald, July 20.

Hon. Mr. White and party left this morning for Banff. They are all more than delighted with Calgary and its surroundings.

Chas. Wiley is in the hands of the Police on a charge of larceny preferred by Henry Leach, of Donald. Wiley is accused of opening a postal package addressed to Leach and abstracting a valuable pin from it. Since the arrest every effort has been made to find Leach but without success.

Mr. Miquelon has received a telegram from Capt. Grahame, immigration agent at Winnipeg, asking him if he could get employment for Islanders out here. Mr. Miquelon answered that he might find places for ten or twelve servant girls, but there was nothing certain for men. Any person requiring help of any kind should consult with Mr. Miquelon, who will do all he can to get them servants or laborers.

BANFF.

The National Park of our fair Dominion. Eager, how exceedingly fortunate are we inhabitants of this northern clime, in the fact of possessing such a blessing as a National Park, where not only the monied pleasure-seeker and lover of nature satisfies his curiosity in feasting his sight on grand scenery, but the sick, the suffering portion of our community can obtain relief from their sufferings at those wonderful springs. Room the picnic to your members of the press! No action in regard to those springs. They are pronounced a blessing by all who have bathed in them a sufficient length of time to derive any benefit. Yes, loom it; let the world know it so that the poor sufferer can obtain relief. Let the grand scenery slide; that don't benefit the poor devil with rheumatism in his knee. There is scenery enough around our country; what was wanted was a place where one could derive substantial benefit, and it has been found; and now let us make the most of it.

Way up here, high up on the mountain slope and close by the Hot Springs, is a cluster of buildings, one above the other, among the trees, each one hidden from the others, yet all connected with the springs by means of water pipes, and here in these hotels dwell numerous chronic sufferers, patronizing the baths. Some on crutches, on sticks, sick, lame and lazy, old and young. Many who have no need for the baths, joking from the very clerk; bright clear eyes and elastic step are here also, but who battle for the novelty of this kind of bathing. The chief part of conversation in the hotels here is discussing the baths. I have one gentleman's word for it that he can cure his rheumatism in the first week, and has gained extreme promise in that time. When an impression of service intention, but the people around here, who are not when in first class, and have made the difference in his position do not doubt his strength. When a man to tell me that a person can cure a living skeleton, and after a few weeks bathing, expanded on the time for the skeleton, I would not believe it, but would you, but I don't believe in the above sixteen pound improvement.

Caves are getting to be numerous here, scarcely a day goes by but some new discovery is made. The other day a team at work with a scraper in rear of Dr. Brett's Grand View Hotel broke through a yellowish crust, but were gotten out safely. This proved to be the opening to a grand cave that extends away I don't know how many hundred feet, passing directly under the corner of the building. By the-by, Dr. Brett is having a large excavation made adjoining his bath house for the erection of a billiard hall general recreation rooms. Such a place as the springs will be a boon to the visitors living here.

All day long a stream of vehicles of all descriptions is coming and going to and from the springs over the Government road. By the-by, let no man complain of there being no work in this country. Yes, here in this wilderness, our provident Government has an asylum for those out of employment. The said power furnishes employment for any and all who will work on the Government road. No letters of introduction and recommendations required.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? I so send at once and get a bottle of "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers; there is no mistake about it. It cures Dysentery and Diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures Wind Colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for children teething is pleasant to the taste and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

AQUATIC.

The Toronto Mail's account, from their special correspondent at Pullman, Ill., of the Haulan-Gaudaur boat race puts an entirely different version of the race before Canadians. It is as follows:—

Chicago, July 24.—The Toronto boy's claim to the title is universally conceded here. His work on the course at Lake Calumet to-day, fairly earned back for him the title he lost to John Teemer on October 14th, 1885. The day opened ominously, a fresh northeast wind springing up at dawn, which later on freshened into a gale but eventually subsided somewhat. Haulan and Gaudaur were rowing on the course, both spinning over it very early in the morning. The two men appeared in the best form. Gaudaur's backer, Mr. St. John, was not offering as much of his money as he did the previous contest, and this was looked upon as a little significant, particularly in view of the fact that Gaudaur is emphatically forecast his success yesterday. The arrangements were not of the best. The understanding mutually agreed upon was that the referee should call the race before 10 o'clock, if, in his opinion, the water was in proper condition. The race, however, was deferred nearly two hours later by the referee in deference to Gaudaur's plea that the water was too rough. Four thousand people came to witness the contest. Gaudaur was slightly the favorite in the betting, but towards the last when the rumor was circulated that St. John's man was not feeling well, a liberal amount of betting was indulged in.

At 7.30 o'clock, nightfall having completely settled in, the referee, in stentorian tones, shouted "Ready! Go!" Both shells shot forward and the race so long deferred was on. As stated, it was quite dark when the start was made, so much so that the flag could scarcely be discerned through the space intervening between the press box and the starting point. Haulan was in his new "Wain" boat. It tipped the scale at 20 pounds and measured 31 feet 3 inches in length. The outriggers were spread 4 feet 9 inches. Gaudaur was in a Radlick shell, the one in which he wrested the last race from Haulan. Gaudaur's stroke at the start was 32 and Haulan's 31, a rate which the latter afterwards reduced to that of Gaudaur's. The latter got a lead at the start of half a length which he maintained for half a mile. Then the Toronto man made a spurt and passed him like a shot. This was all that was seen of the race until a shadowy form, which proved to be Haulan's, shot over the finish line. Haulan had made the first mile and a half in nine minutes. On the way in he had the wind behind him. Gaudaur pulled off the course, and when he came in he was to the north of Haulan fully fifteen lengths, or about 150 yards. As Gaudaur dove in sight woefully beaten a shout went up which stimulated him to a 26 stroke effort. Haulan had completely out-generaled him and won the race in 20 minutes 32 sec. Gaudaur finished some time later four rods on the other side of the winner, where no one could see him. When Haulan came out of his shell, and was formally declared the victor, the crowd went wild, and he was carried up to the house on the shoulders of enthusiastic "fans."

The Mail contends that Gaudaur was not only squarely beaten, but that Gaudaur's star has left.

GENERAL NEWS.
Toronto, July 29.—The Globe's special cable says: The Canadian cricketers won their match at Derby by one innings and two runs. They made 150 and Derby 42 and St. Gillespie and Ogden bowled very effectively. Saunders has now recovered from his illness and Ferrie is improving. The North country papers support the Canadian's protest against professionals taking part in the matches.

Haulan, on reaching the Island last night, was cheered by a crowd and escorted to the hotel there. In answer to calls for a speech, he said he was disgusted with Gaudaur's conduct, which was caused by fright, and he regretted being connected with such a title. He would see that the next championship race would be rowed on Toronto bay, as he was tired of peddling the championship about the continent. He was now going to Australia and would endeavor to return with the world's championship.

London, Eng., July 29. Agriculturists throughout the country are expressing their gratitude for the decision of the Government to cease for the present the purchase of Canadian horses, and are urging the War Secretary to make special efforts to stimulate the home supply till it equals the entire wants of the army. The confident opinion, however, in well informed circles is that in the event of threatened outbreak of hostilities the government will be compelled to obtain an outside supply, and Canada is the only promptly available field.

Vancouver, B. C., July 29.—The steamer Port Augusta, Capt. Hogg, arrived here at midnight. She left Yokohama July 13, at 2 o'clock p.m. She experienced fine weather throughout the voyage, but almost continual fog, so that the captain was only able to take two observations. She arrived off land the morning of the 23th, and had to lay to at anchor for two days on account of the fog. She has sixteen passengers and twenty three Chinese and five Japanese; also 14 bags of mail. She has a cargo of 42,816 packages tea and general merchandise; 3,000 cubic tons.

"The music furnished by the Wilber band was a rare treat for the citizens of Medicine Hat." Yes, we heard that band too, and we say "different here." We are most eternally thankful that the "treat" was "race." The music of that band was like unto a North West breeze whistling through a sliver on the top rail of the Corporation farm fence.

A Policeman has been sent from here to Stratford to bring back the deserter Brocklehurst.

Mr. P. M. Parker, who has been on a trip through the Territories, says Prince Albert is prospering.

QU'APPELLE.

From the Progress, July 27.

Any number of workmen will shortly find employment here on the Wood Mountain and Qu'Appelle Railway.

There has been considerable rain here this week. Had it come three weeks ago it would have been worth more to the wheat crop.

The barley harvest has commenced. Frederick Seymour, north west of here, cut his on Saturday last, and other fields are being cut this week.

The surveyors now at work on the Wood Mountain and Qu'Appelle Railway have located and staked fifty miles of the line and the work is still going on. The line runs on the south side of the lake at the Port and crossing the river leaves the valley by the Jumping creek.

Mr. Geo. Russell, of Prince Albert, was in town this week.

BATTLEFORD.

High Richardson has been appointed Deputy Clerk of the Court for this Division of the Saskatchewan District.

A fine specimen of the mountain lion was seen near Geo. Harper's place, Eagle Hills, a few days ago. The man who saw him did not count a close acquaintance.

The Rev. J. A. McKay having accepted the Principalship of Emmanuel College, Prince Albert, has tendered his resignation as Indian Agent. In view of the early division of the agency it is likely a permanent successor will be appointed just now.
